Little Benny's Note Book

Ma and pop were waiting for Mr and Mrs Spruance to come and play bridge and ma said, I do hope Hilda wont get on the subject of her operation. There's simply no end to it when she starts, and she's certainly been making a practice of starting.

Well let's hope she takes a night off but I think I can put a crimp in her stile if necessary, pop said.

Which just then the doorbell rang and it was Mr and Mrs. Spruance, the first thing Mrs. Spruance said being, We can only stay for a few rubbers, because since my operation I'm suppose to go to bed quite early till I'm my old self again. My, that operation was something to remember, she said

So was mine, pop quick said. I dont remember the actual operation, of course, although they tell me I was there all through it. Going under the ether was the part that I cant forget. It took 40 drops to knock me out. Each drop seemed to fall with a crash like a clap of thunder and each drop seemed to give me a different hallucination. I remember the whole 40 hallucinations, that'll give you an idea of how vivid it was. When the first drop fell I thought I was hit by a red comet with a green tail. At the 2nd drop I thought I was hit by a blue comet with a pink tail. Or maybe that was the 3rd drop. Anyway, right after that I thought I was hit by a yellow comet with a black tail, so that must of been either 3rd drop or the 4th drop, or was that the 5th drop? pop said, and Mr. Spruance said, Great heavens, man, what's the difference?

Maybe you're right, pop said. Anyway I assure you I remember the entire 40 drops, though perhaps not in their exact order. I'm almost sure the 6th drop was a speckled comet with no tail at all, and the 7th drop was a speckled tail with no comet. That was an odd one. And then came the 8th drop, he said, and ma said, And now comes bridge, I hope, because dont forget that Hilda has to leave early for land sakes.

And she got the cards out and made pop set the table up without any more comets.

A CHRISTMAS PET WOULD MAKE A HIT

For the best assortment of living gifts, see the "Pet Stock" column in Star Want Ads, classification No. 51. Advertisers offer grown dogs and puppies, cats and kittens, a variety of cage birds—pets of all kinds to bring joy to the hearts of youngsters and grown-ups. If a living gift will solve your what-to-give problem, give it, and you are certain of being remembered a long time for your thoughtfulness. The day in and day out playfulness of a puppy, or the amusing antics of a friendly kitten or the sweet charm of a canary's song, makes a house more homelike, gives added zest to family life. By all means make it a living gift, anything from a Great Dane to a bowl of guppies. And remember shop early; there will be a bigger run than usual on pets, because priorities and shortages have taken many things off the market that people were accustomed to giving at Christmas time. See "Pet Stock" in tonight's Star Want Ads.
